

Ray of Light

You light up my living day,
With your most delicious way

You brighten up the very night,
With a fire of passion burning bright

Though your doubts and fears have kept us at bay,
There remains a flicker of hope that this love will find a way

The barriers we will climb, the gates we will pass through,
The summit we will reach, if we have a love that is for real and true

I know it has not been easy, be that as it may,
This romance between two lovers, in places so far away

The winds, its true have not been kind,
The rains, so hard we both feel blind

Still in my heart I believe this will be, its time for us to play
This chemistry most amazing between you and me, its now for us to sway

For if it is fate, our destiny to be one,
To frolic, to embrace, and bask in the sun
Then this love so deep, will not this time, be undone

- To: Spellbound
- Copyright ©Brian R Dillon – Written in Fall 2002